

To: Federal Communication Commision
From: Eric Gleason
Date: June 11, 2007

Re: Comment to Sirius and XM Merger

As the comment period has officially begun to the proposed merger of XM and Sirius satellite radio companies, I would to express my support to the proposed merger. As a customer of Sirius, I encourage the FCC to approve the merger with pricing controls that would allow a customer to only pay for the services that they want to receive. I believe that the competition between Satellite and Terrestrial radio has brought about many good changes for the consumer (i.e. HD radio, less commercials, and the introduction of aux input jacks in cars to allow for the playback of MP3 players). This competition should be enhanced with the merger of these two companies.

Thanks for your time.
Eric Gleason
4 Country Squire Ct.
Greenville, SC 29615